

The perfin containing the full name DENT enclosed in a triangle is well known, but until now has not been identified. However, Kelly's Trade Directory for 1892 for Warwickshire shows the perfin is in fact the trade mark of E Dent & Co., Watchmakers of London, who operated from 1863 to at least 1895.

As well as my interest in perfins, I have an interest in historical research into Clock and Watchmakers, so it is particularly appropriate to collect examples tying these two interests. I would be most interested to hear of examples of this perfin and to know details of stamp and postmarks and would be pleased to purchase any unwanted copies members may hold.
